

Westminster Show May Break Record

Entries for the Show Pour In from All Parts of Country.

DETAILS IN HANDS OF JAMES MORTIMER

Doors Opened to Canada, and the Fanciers of Dominion Are Responding Eagerly.

Superintending a big dog show is anything but a sinecure, for the job is filled with pitfalls for the unwary, pitfalls that may shatter friendships, involve the victim in endless arguments and earn him enemies by the score. Only he with stout heart and clear hands dares to enter the lists under such conditions.

But all these are but side issues. The enormous amount of detail work needed to the arranging of entries, receiving and reciprocating of entries and answering of a thousand and one queries constitute the laborious part of the business.

James Mortimer, the superintendent of the Westminster Kennel Club Show at Madison Square Garden on February 22, was buried under a pile of mail when an attempt was made last week to glean some information concerning his as to the position of the premier event of the dog world.

Mr. Mortimer waved his arms helplessly and jerked his head over his shoulder in the direction of the five clerks who were working feverishly at stacks of mail on a big table in his office in the Townsend Building.

"That's the best answer I can give you as to the prospects for the Westminster Show. It will take us until Monday at least before we will know just how many entries we have received," said the veteran superintendent, disappearing once more under the mass of unanswered letters.

A hasty survey of the mail showed noisiness all the way from the Pacific coast, from the northernmost spot in snowbound Maine, and from the palm fringed beach resorts of balmy Florida.

In addition to the returns through the mails, the sanctity of Mortimer's offices was invaded every few minutes by fanciers and breeders calling in person to hand in their entries.

Last year when the Westminster Show was held in Grand Central Palace, 1,921 dogs, exclusive of the foxhound, beagle and harrier packs, were bunched.

Everything indicates that this record will be surpassed next month. The doors have been opened to the fanciers of Canada, assuring a heavy entry from over the border.

This will simplify the status of Canadian dogs, as the following communication from F. Torrance, Veterinary Director General of the Dominion, will show:

"United States collies and sheepdogs cannot be brought into Canada for any purpose. Canadian dogs can, however, be shipped from Canada direct to the United States bench shows and returned without any trouble. Such dogs must, however, be brought by sea, as the port through which they went out of the country so that the customs officer will be in a position to identify them."

The special prizes for foxhounds, of $100 and the $100 beagle pack special are features that will add greatly to the interest of the show and the entries will not close for several days. The packs are to be shown by the masters or servants, in hunting costume, and the competitions will add color to "Hound Day" at the closing session of the show.

One of the dogs which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Ivo Caradoc, owned by W. Ross Proctor's Brookwood Kennels.

Ivo Caradoc is a famous British champion, and received first and Toy Spaniel Club's only appearance in America.

He has made it repeat his triumphs at the Garden.

The other dog which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Watnong Matterhorn, owned by Mrs. R. F. Rumford's Fifi, and Mrs. Art again won a blue ribbon for the best in the Blenheim spaniels, with Prince Snow White, Mr. Geddes' handsome little King Charles spaniel was awarded the blue, and in the Samoyede class, the first appearance of these dainty bits of dog flesh, Mrs. Hill took the honors in the open.

The best among the Japanese spaniels went to Mrs. Fred Rumford's Fifi, and Mrs. Art again won a blue ribbon for the best in the Blenheim spaniels, with Prince Snow White, Mr. Geddes' handsome little King Charles spaniel was awarded the blue, and in the Samoyede class, the first appearance of these dainty bits of dog flesh, Mrs. Hill took the honors in the open.

The special prizes for foxhounds, of $100 and the $100 beagle pack special are features that will add greatly to the interest of the show and the entries will not close for several days. The packs are to be shown by the masters or servants, in hunting costume, and the competitions will add color to "Hound Day" at the closing session of the show.

One of the dogs which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Ivo Caradoc, owned by W. Ross Proctor's Brookwood Kennels.

Ivo Caradoc is a famous British champion, and received first and Toy Spaniel Club's only appearance in America.

He has made it repeat his triumphs at the Garden.

The other dog which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Watnong Matterhorn, owned by Mrs. R. F. Rumford's Fifi, and Mrs. Art again won a blue ribbon for the best in the Blenheim spaniels, with Prince Snow White, Mr. Geddes' handsome little King Charles spaniel was awarded the blue, and in the Samoyede class, the first appearance of these dainty bits of dog flesh, Mrs. Hill took the honors in the open.

The best among the Japanese spaniels went to Mrs. Fred Rumford's Fifi, and Mrs. Art again won a blue ribbon for the best in the Blenheim spaniels, with Prince Snow White, Mr. Geddes' handsome little King Charles spaniel was awarded the blue, and in the Samoyede class, the first appearance of these dainty bits of dog flesh, Mrs. Hill took the honors in the open.

The special prizes for foxhounds, of $100 and the $100 beagle pack special are features that will add greatly to the interest of the show and the entries will not close for several days. The packs are to be shown by the masters or servants, in hunting costume, and the competitions will add color to "Hound Day" at the closing session of the show.

One of the dogs which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Ivo Caradoc, owned by W. Ross Proctor's Brookwood Kennels.

Ivo Caradoc is a famous British champion, and received first and Toy Spaniel Club's only appearance in America.

He has made it repeat his triumphs at the Garden.

The other dog which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Watnong Matterhorn, owned by Mrs. R. F. Rumford's Fifi, and Mrs. Art again won a blue ribbon for the best in the Blenheim spaniels, with Prince Snow White, Mr. Geddes' handsome little King Charles spaniel was awarded the blue, and in the Samoyede class, the first appearance of these dainty bits of dog flesh, Mrs. Hill took the honors in the open.

The special prizes for foxhounds, of $100 and the $100 beagle pack special are features that will add greatly to the interest of the show and the entries will not close for several days. The packs are to be shown by the masters or servants, in hunting costume, and the competitions will add color to "Hound Day" at the closing session of the show.

One of the dogs which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Ivo Caradoc, owned by W. Ross Proctor's Brookwood Kennels.

Ivo Caradoc is a famous British champion, and received first and Toy Spaniel Club's only appearance in America.

He has made it repeat his triumphs at the Garden.

The other dog which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Watnong Matterhorn, owned by Mrs. R. F. Rumford's Fifi, and Mrs. Art again won a blue ribbon for the best in the Blenheim spaniels, with Prince Snow White, Mr. Geddes' handsome little King Charles spaniel was awarded the blue, and in the Samoyede class, the first appearance of these dainty bits of dog flesh, Mrs. Hill took the honors in the open.

The special prizes for foxhounds, of $100 and the $100 beagle pack special are features that will add greatly to the interest of the show and the entries will not close for several days. The packs are to be shown by the masters or servants, in hunting costume, and the competitions will add color to "Hound Day" at the closing session of the show.

One of the dogs which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Ivo Caradoc, owned by W. Ross Proctor's Brookwood Kennels.

Ivo Caradoc is a famous British champion, and received first and Toy Spaniel Club's only appearance in America.

He has made it repeat his triumphs at the Garden.

The other dog which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Watnong Matterhorn, owned by Mrs. R. F. Rumford's Fifi, and Mrs. Art again won a blue ribbon for the best in the Blenheim spaniels, with Prince Snow White, Mr. Geddes' handsome little King Charles spaniel was awarded the blue, and in the Samoyede class, the first appearance of these dainty bits of dog flesh, Mrs. Hill took the honors in the open.

The special prizes for foxhounds, of $100 and the $100 beagle pack special are features that will add greatly to the interest of the show and the entries will not close for several days. The packs are to be shown by the masters or servants, in hunting costume, and the competitions will add color to "Hound Day" at the closing session of the show.

One of the dogs which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Ivo Caradoc, owned by W. Ross Proctor's Brookwood Kennels.

Ivo Caradoc is a famous British champion, and received first and Toy Spaniel Club's only appearance in America.

He has made it repeat his triumphs at the Garden.

The other dog which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Watnong Matterhorn, owned by Mrs. R. F. Rumford's Fifi, and Mrs. Art again won a blue ribbon for the best in the Blenheim spaniels, with Prince Snow White, Mr. Geddes' handsome little King Charles spaniel was awarded the blue, and in the Samoyede class, the first appearance of these dainty bits of dog flesh, Mrs. Hill took the honors in the open.

The special prizes for foxhounds, of $100 and the $100 beagle pack special are features that will add greatly to the interest of the show and the entries will not close for several days. The packs are to be shown by the masters or servants, in hunting costume, and the competitions will add color to "Hound Day" at the closing session of the show.

One of the dogs which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Ivo Caradoc, owned by W. Ross Proctor's Brookwood Kennels.

Ivo Caradoc is a famous British champion, and received first and Toy Spaniel Club's only appearance in America.

He has made it repeat his triumphs at the Garden.

The other dog which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Watnong Matterhorn, owned by Mrs. R. F. Rumford's Fifi, and Mrs. Art again won a blue ribbon for the best in the Blenheim spaniels, with Prince Snow White, Mr. Geddes' handsome little King Charles spaniel was awarded the blue, and in the Samoyede class, the first appearance of these dainty bits of dog flesh, Mrs. Hill took the honors in the open.

The special prizes for foxhounds, of $100 and the $100 beagle pack special are features that will add greatly to the interest of the show and the entries will not close for several days. The packs are to be shown by the masters or servants, in hunting costume, and the competitions will add color to "Hound Day" at the closing session of the show.

One of the dogs which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Ivo Caradoc, owned by W. Ross Proctor's Brookwood Kennels.

Ivo Caradoc is a famous British champion, and received first and Toy Spaniel Club's only appearance in America.

He has made it repeat his triumphs at the Garden.

The other dog which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Watnong Matterhorn, owned by Mrs. R. F. Rumford's Fifi, and Mrs. Art again won a blue ribbon for the best in the Blenheim spaniels, with Prince Snow White, Mr. Geddes' handsome little King Charles spaniel was awarded the blue, and in the Samoyede class, the first appearance of these dainty bits of dog flesh, Mrs. Hill took the honors in the open.

The special prizes for foxhounds, of $100 and the $100 beagle pack special are features that will add greatly to the interest of the show and the entries will not close for several days. The packs are to be shown by the masters or servants, in hunting costume, and the competitions will add color to "Hound Day" at the closing session of the show.

One of the dogs which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Ivo Caradoc, owned by W. Ross Proctor's Brookwood Kennels.

Ivo Caradoc is a famous British champion, and received first and Toy Spaniel Club's only appearance in America.

He has made it repeat his triumphs at the Garden.

The other dog which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Watnong Matterhorn, owned by Mrs. R. F. Rumford's Fifi, and Mrs. Art again won a blue ribbon for the best in the Blenheim spaniels, with Prince Snow White, Mr. Geddes' handsome little King Charles spaniel was awarded the blue, and in the Samoyede class, the first appearance of these dainty bits of dog flesh, Mrs. Hill took the honors in the open.

The special prizes for foxhounds, of $100 and the $100 beagle pack special are features that will add greatly to the interest of the show and the entries will not close for several days. The packs are to be shown by the masters or servants, in hunting costume, and the competitions will add color to "Hound Day" at the closing session of the show.

One of the dogs which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Ivo Caradoc, owned by W. Ross Proctor's Brookwood Kennels.

Ivo Caradoc is a famous British champion, and received first and Toy Spaniel Club's only appearance in America.

He has made it repeat his triumphs at the Garden.

The other dog which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Watnong Matterhorn, owned by Mrs. R. F. Rumford's Fifi, and Mrs. Art again won a blue ribbon for the best in the Blenheim spaniels, with Prince Snow White, Mr. Geddes' handsome little King Charles spaniel was awarded the blue, and in the Samoyede class, the first appearance of these dainty bits of dog flesh, Mrs. Hill took the honors in the open.

The special prizes for foxhounds, of $100 and the $100 beagle pack special are features that will add greatly to the interest of the show and the entries will not close for several days. The packs are to be shown by the masters or servants, in hunting costume, and the competitions will add color to "Hound Day" at the closing session of the show.

One of the dogs which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Ivo Caradoc, owned by W. Ross Proctor's Brookwood Kennels.

Ivo Caradoc is a famous British champion, and received first and Toy Spaniel Club's only appearance in America.

He has made it repeat his triumphs at the Garden.

The other dog which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Watnong Matterhorn, owned by Mrs. R. F. Rumford's Fifi, and Mrs. Art again won a blue ribbon for the best in the Blenheim spaniels, with Prince Snow White, Mr. Geddes' handsome little King Charles spaniel was awarded the blue, and in the Samoyede class, the first appearance of these dainty bits of dog flesh, Mrs. Hill took the honors in the open.

The special prizes for foxhounds, of $100 and the $100 beagle pack special are features that will add greatly to the interest of the show and the entries will not close for several days. The packs are to be shown by the masters or servants, in hunting costume, and the competitions will add color to "Hound Day" at the closing session of the show.

One of the dogs which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Ivo Caradoc, owned by W. Ross Proctor's Brookwood Kennels.

Ivo Caradoc is a famous British champion, and received first and Toy Spaniel Club's only appearance in America.

He has made it repeat his triumphs at the Garden.

The other dog which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Watnong Matterhorn, owned by Mrs. R. F. Rumford's Fifi, and Mrs. Art again won a blue ribbon for the best in the Blenheim spaniels, with Prince Snow White, Mr. Geddes' handsome little King Charles spaniel was awarded the blue, and in the Samoyede class, the first appearance of these dainty bits of dog flesh, Mrs. Hill took the honors in the open.

The special prizes for foxhounds, of $100 and the $100 beagle pack special are features that will add greatly to the interest of the show and the entries will not close for several days. The packs are to be shown by the masters or servants, in hunting costume, and the competitions will add color to "Hound Day" at the closing session of the show.

One of the dogs which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Ivo Caradoc, owned by W. Ross Proctor's Brookwood Kennels.

Ivo Caradoc is a famous British champion, and received first and Toy Spaniel Club's only appearance in America.

He has made it repeat his triumphs at the Garden.

The other dog which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Watnong Matterhorn, owned by Mrs. R. F. Rumford's Fifi, and Mrs. Art again won a blue ribbon for the best in the Blenheim spaniels, with Prince Snow White, Mr. Geddes' handsome little King Charles spaniel was awarded the blue, and in the Samoyede class, the first appearance of these dainty bits of dog flesh, Mrs. Hill took the honors in the open.

The special prizes for foxhounds, of $100 and the $100 beagle pack special are features that will add greatly to the interest of the show and the entries will not close for several days. The packs are to be shown by the masters or servants, in hunting costume, and the competitions will add color to "Hound Day" at the closing session of the show.

One of the dogs which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Ivo Caradoc, owned by W. Ross Proctor's Brookwood Kennels.

Ivo Caradoc is a famous British champion, and received first and Toy Spaniel Club's only appearance in America.

He has made it repeat his triumphs at the Garden.

The other dog which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Watnong Matterhorn, owned by Mrs. R. F. Rumford's Fifi, and Mrs. Art again won a blue ribbon for the best in the Blenheim spaniels, with Prince Snow White, Mr. Geddes' handsome little King Charles spaniel was awarded the blue, and in the Samoyede class, the first appearance of these dainty bits of dog flesh, Mrs. Hill took the honors in the open.

The special prizes for foxhounds, of $100 and the $100 beagle pack special are features that will add greatly to the interest of the show and the entries will not close for several days. The packs are to be shown by the masters or servants, in hunting costume, and the competitions will add color to "Hound Day" at the closing session of the show.

One of the dogs which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Ivo Caradoc, owned by W. Ross Proctor's Brookwood Kennels.

Ivo Caradoc is a famous British champion, and received first and Toy Spaniel Club's only appearance in America.

He has made it repeat his triumphs at the Garden.

The other dog which will claim attention in the show ring will be the Sealyham terrier Watnong Matterhorn, owned by Mrs. R. F. Rumford's Fifi, and Mrs. Art again won a blue ribbon for the best in the Blenheim spaniels, with Prince Snow White, Mr. Geddes' handsome little